

MASSACRE NOT EXAGGERATED

Further Horrifying Details Are Now Being Told By Refugees

Suffering Is Very Great And Help Is Needed

About One Hundred Killed and Fully a Thousand Maimed--Jewish Paper Says the Horror Was Organized By High Russian Officials.

(Advocate Telegram.)

NEW YORK, May 15—Authentic details received today show that the first reports of the massacre of Jews at Kishineff, Russia, were not exaggerated. Suffering is very great and help is needed. American Jews have already subscribed over $30,000. The massacre was caused by the finding of a body of a Gentile boy in the Jewish quarter. Ignorant peasants believed that he was killed and his blood used by Jews in sacrifice. The Hebrews in New York will have an enormous public demonstration against Russian cruelty. Many Jews were beaten to death with clubs in the streets of Kishineff. Some of the refugees are now arriving in New York where they are cared for. Russia remains indifferent to the massacres.

HORRIBLE DETAILS BECOMING KNOWN.

(Advocate Telegram.)

LONDON, May 15—The Jewish Chronicle and other newspapers here are now getting details of the massacre of the Jews at Kishineff in Bessarabia, Russia. They add fresh horrors to the awful atrocity. Reports as to the number of dead differ and range from 6 to 125. Fully 1000 Jews were maimed and otherwise wounded, and hundreds will be cripples for life.

Relatives of the murdered Jews who are searching through the ruins of their homes for the remains of loved ones, are described as being in a state nearing insanity as a result of the awful scenes. Here a hand and there a foot is found, while walls in many places are splashed with blood and brains. A Kishineff Jew details some of the horrors in an interview. He declares a Jew was brought to a hospital with one hip, both ankles and wrists broken and with his severed hands and feet dangling by a string. Another case was that of a Jewess who was carried in with two spikes seven inches long driven into her brain through her nose. Another was that of a man with both lips cut away with a kitchen knife. After his face had been slashed his tormentors pulled his tongue and windpipe out with pincers. The paper says the massacre was organized by high Russian officials.

Four thousand Jews at Kishineff are reported as being without food or shelter and with no means to leave the city of horror.

In its leading editorial today the Jewish Chronicle says:

"We charge the Russian government with responsibility for the Kishineff massacre. If Europe does not, on the present occasion, dissociate itself from the leprosy taint of this barbarian power, it writes its humanity down a sham and its civilization an organized hypocrisy."

During the riots the troops and police were inactive and the governor did not leave his palace.

REFUGEE TALKS.

New York, May 15—Half crazed by his suffering and haunted by the fear that his wife and children met the horrible fate that so few escaped in Kishineff, Jacob Friedman, refugee from the scene of the frightful massacre of the Jews in Russia, has reached New York.

Friedman was a wealthy glass manufacturer, but to save his own life he was forced to abandon his family and property. He left his wife and children in the care of a Gentile with whom he was on friendly terms. He was chased through the town by the mob, but made his escape. Shortly after his arrival he told his story.

"On April 20th, which was the Russian Easter Sunday, I heard the mob shooting in front of my house.

"When I heard a friend shouting 'murder' I became alarmed and ran upstairs, to where my grandfather, who was 73 years old, was sleeping. I told him that some one was being beaten to death in front of our house.

"Grandfather went downstairs, although my wife and my four children begged him to stay indoors. He insisted on going out. I started after him, but when I saw the mob of nearly 200 men, all armed with clubs, surrounding my poor old grandfather, I became frightened and went back to the house.

"Just as I reached the steps I heard my grandfather cry out, and as I looked around I saw three men beating him over the head with clubs. He died almost instantly, and then the mob started to break into our house.

"We hastily barricaded the doors, and the mob was unable to gain entrance. In the meantime a number of our friends entered the house by the rear alley, and we all sought safety in the cellar. There were about 20 men, women and children huddled together in the dark cellar, and we remained there for nearly ten hours.

"Such a sight as met our eyes will never be forgotten by any of us, and we all thought that the mob would return at any moment and kill us. The street pavement was covered with blood, and even the steps of the houses.

"We all spent the night in prayer, hoping that in some way we would be able to make our escape. The next day, shortly after daybreak, I determined to try and get away with my wife and four children, and we started from the rear of the house, down back streets, until we were on the outskirts of the town.

"There I met a Gentile friend, in whose care I left my wife and children. Then I returned to my grandfather's house to get some money, and it was there that I nearly lost my life. Another mob chased me to the very door of the house, but my friends were waiting for me and held the door open until I got inside, and then slammed it shut right in the face of the men who were chasing me.

"They started to batter down the windows, and we all fled in terror through the rear. There was a crowd of fully 100 waiting for us there and when we ran into the street they began to swing their clubs.

"By some lucky chance I managed to avoid being struck, although I saw four men and women beaten to death during the few moments I was fighting for my life.

"Then I started to run, and I do not think I stopped once all the way to Babionka, about 12 miles distant.

where I caught a train on the Russian railway for Gordna.

"From Gordna I went to Sepetkin, and from there to Hamburg, where I embarked for this country. I am nearly crazy to hear what has become of my wife and children, for I cannot think of anything else than that have all been killed."

Friedman said he thought there had been fully 500 Jews massacred by the mob at Kishineff, and he knew that it was the desire of every Jewish resident to seek place of safety.

Lexington, Ky., May 15—Wm. Letters are Being Received by the Mayor of Lorain—King Away From Home.

(Advocate Telegram)

Lorain, O., May 15—Despite his denials of any fear growing out of the Reichlin murder from the many threatening anonymous letters he has received the past ten days, Mayor King last night, for the first time in many months did not sleep at home. Instead he stopped at a downtown hotel. Yesterday King received a number of letters of a startling nature. All of them were from out of town writers. One in particular told King to prepare to meet his God, that his days were numbered and he might expect his final message at the hands of an assassin at any moment. This morning King's mail brought another batch of similar import. "I have had at least 50 letters" he said, "in which the opening sentence was either prepare to meet your God or an avenging nemesis is on your track."

Guilty

Jackson Man Talks of the Marcum Murder

ANOTHER SHOOTING AFFAIR HAS TAKEN PLACE.

IT MAY START ANOTHER FEUD

County Attorney Blanton Thinks That Troops Will be Needed at the Trial of Jett.

Winchester, Ky., May 15—Jesse Spicer, E. L. Noble and George Spencer arrived here from Jackson. Spicer and Noble are deputies under Sheriff Ed Callahan and Spencer is the son of the jailor of Breathitt county. Mr. Noble said that their presence here had no connection with the Breathitt county trouble.

"What is the consensus of opinion in Jackson, Mr. Noble, as to whether Curt Jett killed Marcum?" asked the correspondent.

"That he did not," promptly replied Mr. Noble. "There are at least ten reputable citizens of Jackson who will swear that Curt Jett was not in the court house at the time the shots were fired."

"Where were you at that time?"

"On the morning of the shooting I was standing in front of Judge Hargis's store opposite the court house, talking to Dr. H. H. and J. S. Sewell. I noticed Curt Jett and my brother Robert, standing near the post office at the northeast corner of the public square. I turned into the store and had just taken a seat on the counter to have a chat with Judge Hargis when I heard the shot. I returned immediately to the door and saw Curt Jett walking toward the court house."

Blanton said he discussed the situation in Breathitt in a general way with Governor Beckham, but made no request of the Governor.

court house and back to where I saw him after the shooting."

"And then what happened?"

"Ewen came over to the store. Judge Hargis asked him who did the shooting. 'Before God,' said he, 'I swear to you I don't know. I didn't see anybody.' Sheriff Calahan, Mr. Ewen, Mr. Spicer, Mr. S. S. Taithee and myself then went to the court house. Mrs. J. E. Patrick and her little daughter went with us. We entered the building just as Marcum's body which had fallen almost wholly within the doorway was being removed. We searched the hallways and the offices of the county officials on the lower floor. All were empty. Two stairways in front and one in the rear of the building lead to the upper floor. The doors leading from these to the court room and jury rooms were locked. We got the keys from the jailer and made a thorough search. There was also likely no one in the court house, nor could we find the slightest trace of the murderer."

Mr. Noble's attention was called to the statement made Wednesday.

"Yes," said he, "I saw that, and I don't think there's much in it. Judge Bach told me shortly after the killing that he, W. M. Combs, Kelly Nash and Mr. Patrick were in Patrick's office when the shooting occurred. Judge Bach's statement was corroborated by Mr. Nash. Patrick's office is the middle one of three under the same roof fronting on Main street, and if Judge Bach has told the truth, ratruck could not, at the time of the shooting have seen even the courthouse."

"I am taking no side in the matter," continued Mr. Noble. "I am for peace. I want the assassin of Jim Marcum apprehended and punished and will do all I can to help bring the guilty one to the judgment bar, but I am thoroughly satisfied that Curt Jett is innocent. We are on our way to Willmore on private business."

Mr. Spencer, in company with Jett's mother, Mrs. Hagan, and his attorney, Mr. Stevenson, visited Jett in jail. Jett has been in very good humor throughout the day, and no change was noted in his demeanor after his visitors left.

BULLETS FLEW

In Jackson and Another Feud May be Started.

Jackson, Ky., May 14—While bloodless the latest shooting affair in Jackson involves the possible origin of a new feud.

Stewart Hager and South Strong met in Cole's grocery. Strong began to tease Hager about a shooting affair of some days previous.

A quarrel followed and Hager put a bullet through Strong's coat. Strong had a warrant issued, and Deputy Elijah Noble undertook to serve it, finding Hager at Combs' drug store. Hager declined, for reasons not known, to submit to arrest, and walked away.

When about 30 paces Noble ordered him to halt. Hager ignored the order and Noble fired. Hager wheeled with a pistol in either hand and fusilled Noble to cover. Friends of the several parties had armed themselves and were ready to enter the affray had any developments warranted interference.

In the exchange of shots the glass front of Bohaman's drug store was shattered. Neither of the men was hurt, and since friends took no part the incident is considered closed. At last reports Hager had not been arrested on the warrant.

TROOPS NEEDED

If Jett or Any One Else Is Tried for the Marcum Shooting.

Frankfort, Ky., May 15—County Attorney W. H. Blanton and ex-Sheriff Breck Combs of Breathitt county, were here and had a talk with Governor Beckham, though they said they came to Frankfort on other business.

Blanton is one of the witnesses of the Marcum assassination, and when asked about it he said:

"Yes, I heard the shot, saw Marcum fall and walked right over to the court house door. I saw the smoke from the gun or pistol, but I did not see the assassin, nor did I know who fired the shot. I think if Curt Jett or any one else is tried for the murder it would be much better to have troops sent there than not to have them."

Blanton said he discussed the situation in Breathitt in a general way with Governor Beckham, but made no request of the Governor.

TOWNS NEAR NEWARK.

NEWARK GIRL

Said Man Under Arrest Was Not the One Who Assaulted Her Here the Other Evening.

Zanesville, May 15—Hazel Harrington, the little girl who was the victim of an attempted criminal assault at the hands of a colored man in Newark the other evening, was in the city last night for the purpose of identifying the colored man who was arrested in this city on suspicion of having committed the crime.

The little girl, together with her stepfather, the chief and lieutenant of police and a Times Recorder reporter, went to the city prison and the man was brought into the presence of the party.

The girl without hesitation stated that she had never seen the man before and that the man who assaulted her was taller and lighter than the man who stood before her.

The girl is a delicate child and exhibited considerable nervousness while here. During the wait in the station house while the chief went to the cell room for the prisoner she broke down and wept but when she saw that the man was not her assailant she became calm and left the station seemingly composed.

FORTUNE

Said to be Within Laborer's Grasp—The Man Has a Valuable Railroad Device.

Zanesville, O. May 15—Wealth beyond his fondest dreams is within the grasp of one of Muskingum county's poorest citizens, Clark H. Riggie, of Pleasant Valley, eight miles west of this city.

Clark Riggie is and has been for years eking out a living by working on the section for the B. & O. and at wages never more than $1.25 a day. But he is a genius and, while working along, day after day, week after week and year after year, repairing tracks, grading and ballasting and in repairing damages resulting from wrecks of all sorts, he has been studying and solving problems that the greatest railroad men of the country have been trying to solve for years.

The result is that today Clark H. Riggie, the hard working and poor section hand, is the owner of a patent for which he has been offered the princely sum of $120,000.

The product of Mr. Riggie's ingenuity, is an improved combined fish and rail brace, made entirely of steel and adjustable to any gauge of track. It is demonstrated that the invention or contrivance will make the spreading of railroad rails an impossibility and will do away with railroad wrecks from this source.

By its operations the joints of the rails are securely fastened by a heavy clamp, which is secured in its position by a set screw. A corresponding clamp fastens to the opposite rail and the two are connected by a heavy bar working as a compound screw, which draws the rails to the proper gauge and absolutely prevents their spreading.

Since he has secured the patent on the contrivance Mr. Riggie has secured many handsome offers for it. The first was for $6,000. Then came others, and the last received yesterday from an Eastern company or syndicate brought the princely offer of $120,000. As yet he has not accepted the offer, but it is an alluring bait and he has expressed an inclination to sell.

DENIES THE CHARGE.

Zanesville, O. May 15—An affidavit was filed in a justice's court here by the state medical board against Hagon Jackson, son of Dr. A. L. He was then appointed superintendent of motive power of the Pennsylvania in this city. He went from the Pennsylvania to the B. & O. and afterward became general traffic manager of the Columbus Carriage and Harness company, which position he resigned to go with the interurban company.

ALMOST POSITIVE

Dead Boy is Her Son, Walter McCann of Columbus.

Woman Here With her Daughter to View Remains Now at Cedar Hill Vault--Expects to Claim the Body on Saturday.

An almost positive identification of the remains of the man killed by B. & O. passenger train No. 102, Monday morning was made Friday morning by Mrs. Frank Wilson, of 955 Colwell avenue, Columbus, and her daughter, Miss Cassie McCann. Mrs. Wilson and Miss McCann believe that the dead boy is Walter McCann, son of Mrs. Wilson by her first husband.

Mrs. Wilson first learned of the accident in Newark through the Columbus Dispatch's account and she was positive, from the Dispatch's picture of the dead boy that it is her son. On Friday morning Mrs. Wilson and her daughter, Miss McCann came to Newark and in company with James A. McGonagle, went to Cedar Hill cemetery where the remains now are. Mrs. Wilson identified the remains by the features and by a scar on the right arm, which was caused several years ago while the boy was working in the Pennsylvania shops at Columbus. Mrs. Wilson also positively identified the clothing as being that of her son.

Mrs. Wilson made the following statement to an Advocate reporter:

"I am positive that the dead boy is my son. Walter left home about four months ago saying he would return about the first of May. As he did not come home at that time we were worried regarding him and when we saw the picture in the Columbus Dispatch we were sure that he had been killed in Newark. When we were shown the body this morning we recognized the features as being similar to Walter's, although his face is so bloated that we cannot be positive. His clothing is like that which he wore when he left home. Walter never wore a vest and never let a dentist touch his teeth. He had a scar on his right arm caused by an accident in the Pennsylvania shops in Columbus. As the boy wore no vest and as his teeth had never been touched by a dentist I am all the more positive the boy is Walter. He would have been 22 years at this time and was the same height and weight as the body of the dead boy is. Walter had very dark brown hair."

Mr. McGonagle was told of the scar on the arm by Mrs. Wilson and had no trouble in finding it. The identification would have been an easy matter were it not for the fact that the face was badly bruised in the accident and because of the bloated condition of the neck and chin.

Mr. McGonagle showed Mrs. Wilson the Advocate's sketch of the face of the dead boy and she stated that it greatly resembled her son.

Although Mrs. Wilson is morally certain the dead boy is her son she still wants further proof and she and Miss McCann returned to Columbus at one o'clock Friday afternoon for the purpose of procuring additional evidence. She will return to Newark Thursday morning, and if she can further identify the body she will have it taken to her home in Columbus, where the funeral will be held.

Frank Wilson, Walter's step-father, is a Pan Handle freight conductor.

Mrs. Wilson and Miss McCann are evidently persons of culture and refinement. Mr. McGonagle believes that he has at last found the identity of the boy.

The body of the unknown man who was killed last Monday morning at the Union street railway crossing, was taken Thursday evening to the vault of Cedar Hill cemetery from McGonagle's undertaking establishment and will remain in the vault till the latter part of next week, when, if it is not identified it will be buried by the infirmary directors. The directors of the infirmary using every effort to establish the identity of the man have arranged to have the body kept for at least five more days. The body is in a good state of preservation.

During the day Mr. McGonagle received messages from three more Columbus people who said they would come here to look at the remains. Three came yesterday from Columbus but failed to recognize the young man.

OUR ANGLICAN SECRETARY OF STATE.

Secretary Hay betrays the chagrin he properly experiences over the fiasco he made in prematurely thundering in the index of the supposed Manchurian trouble. He was a veritable warhorse with distended nostrils, emitting fire and blood. Now in his "organ" he complains that he has been made the victim unjustly of press assertions that he magnified the Russian movement and sought abruptly an entente with Great Britain and Japan. He did rush into the breach suspecting Russia, and through the Associated Press sent to the people a feeler upon his pet project of cementing an Anglo-American alliance. The response was sharp and loud that this Nation is not yet so imperial that it cares for or needs any aid from Great Britain, or that it wishes to become involved in any of the interminable disputes of European powers over strips of territory and spheres of influence anywhere. If the United States must have colonies and subject peoples let us hold them under the solitary protection of this Nation, and not march with kings and princes to seize land to procure trade. If a Fourth-of-July injunction were applicable to our Anglican secretary, it would be not to hold the cracker in his hand.

In one of the last of his speeches before doing the Tannhauser act of retiring into the park the President referred to the prosecution of the Federal Salt Company in San Francisco as one of the accomplishments of Attorney General Knox under his new program of finding efficacy in the Sherman anti-trust law. The company has now pleaded guilty to maintaining a monopoly, and thus the first criminal prosecution under the act succeeds. The maximum fine is $5,000, but what is that to a New Jersey corporation that has operated unmolested for three years and raised the price of salt from $2 to $6 per ton? And yet the most forcible object lesson derivable from the case, paramount even to the now accepted discovery that the Sherman law is hot stuff, is that without the outrageous and absurd tariff on salt this monopoly could never have reaped such returns. Reflection upon the manner of finding and evaporating salt always proves the indescribable robbery legalized by the Dingley law in imposing a duty of 12 cents.

If other railroads adopt the policy of the Big Four and make war on the tramps who travel the country over, by stealing rides on freight trains, the tramp nuisance will be pretty effectively checked. The hoboes will have to tramp for sure then. After that the farmers ought to make every able-bodied tramp work for his hand-out. A man who is in hard luck and really willing to work can generally get enough to eat by working for it, and tramping ought not to be encouraged by feeding tramps for nothing.

Mr. Joseph Pominville of Stillwater, Minn., after having spent over $2,000 with the best doctors for stomach trouble, without relief, was advised by his druggist, Mr. Alex Richard, to try a box of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. He did so, and is a well man today. If troubled with indigestion, bad taste in the mouth, lack of appetite or constipation, give these Tablets a trial, and you are certain to be more than pleased with the result. For sale at 25 cents per box by all druggists.

Clew In Strange Love Feud

Yeager Was Killed By An Unknown Woman

OR MURDERED BY SOMEBODY IN HER EMPLOY

THE BOYS RELEASED ON BONDS

And Other Arrests are Likely to be Made—The Boys Have Set Up An Alibi.

Kokomo, Ind., May 15—A woman lured Louis Yeager to his death. He was killed by a woman or for a woman.

The men charged with the crime released on bail at the hearing may be taken into custody again today. It is alleged that they committed the murder at the request of a jealous or revengeful woman, who lured Yeager from his sweetheart's home for them to slay.

Yeager was seen in company with two women and two men about midnight after he left his sweetheart and four hours before his dead body was found in the carriage at his home. Frank B. urnas, farmer, spoke to Yeager as the four passed him in the one carriage.

Yeager is known to have paid attentions to several young women, and arrests will be made as soon as identity of the two with him Sunday is established. One of these, say the authorities, knew of the enmity existing between Yeager and Logan Ingalls, Frank Eades and Charles Eades, the prisoners. One rode with Yeager in the carriage.

The police say that the woman who lured Yeager to his death called the Eades boys and Ingalls to her aid. The authorities say three men were seen in Kokomo early in the evening. Coroner Harrison said after his return from what is now supposed to be the scene of the murder:

"There is a woman in the case, and an arrest will be made as soon as we consider it justified. The facts brought out by the farmers along Yeager's course are startling, and may lead to the conviction of men not mentioned yet."

The identity of the girl who was with Yeager will be learned today, it is expected. Additional summons will be sent for the inquest, and it is said she will be named. The girls whom Yeager had stopped paying attention to after meeting Miss Finley will be especially considered in the new phase of the murder mystery growing out of a feud between the young men of Hemlock and Oakford. No one has sworn that Yeager was the man seen but enough is known of the latter's actions after he left Miss Finley to make identification possible.

The three men arrested for the murder of Louis Yeager were before Justice Moreland, but the absence of the three leading witnesses for the state compelled adjournment until May 22. The prisoners were released under $5,000 bonds each.

Louis Eades, arrested by mistake, was released and Richard, the fourth suspect, has satisfied the officials that he had nothing to do with the crime.

Two more young men will be asked to explain what they know of the case. Birch L. Green, who told the coroner he heard Ingalls or one of the Eades boys say, "If Yeager comes over here again he will have his block knocked off," will be questioned regarding his whereabouts on the night of the crime, and Lawrence Smith, a youth of Hemlock, will be closely questioned.

C. F. Lechner, an employee at the Thrasher livery stable in Kokomo, told the coroner that three youths of about the same age as the prisoners came to the barn early on the night of the crime, stabled a horse and returned to the front of the barn. They drew two half pint flasks of whisky from their pockets and were about to empty them when one said: "Do not drink it. We will have work to do tonight."

If the work was the killing of Louis Yeager they used the whisky, the police say, for a quantity had been poured upon the clothing of the dead man, which caused the belief that he had been drinking.

Lesner visited the jail to identify the prisoners, and after a long scrutiny failed to do so, saying: "They are about the same size and general appearance as those who came to the barn."

No evidence was produced at the preliminary hearing.

The day before his death, Yeager, it is said, told Bert Hale of Oakford, that he had been threatened with punishment by the Eades boys if he came to Hemlock again. Miss Finley is prepared to make the same statement. Alfred Rosenheimer of Oakford, is said to have damaging evidence, but he was absent.

Johnson lives two miles from the home of Miss Finley, and Yeager is said to have gone home by the Sharpsville road. He heard a shot fired at about 11 o'clock at night, as one carriage passed another. William Baker, a farmer, going to Sharpsville, passed a buggy with a single occupant about a mile below. He hailed the man and received no reply. This, the defense contends, shows that Yeager killed himself in front of Johnson's farm, though no blood was found there while some was found near Yeager's home.

Mr. Chas. W. Stewart.

Was born on the 31st day of March, 1861, and was the son of the late Jas. Y. Stewart, of Newton township, Licking county. Mr. Stewart died, after an illness of some five years, at his late home in Cherry Valley, on Monday morning, May 11, 1903, aged 42 years and 3 months, and was buried on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, the interment taking place in beautiful Cedar Hill.

On May 18, 1886, Mr. Stewart was united in marriage to Miss Jennie Taylor, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Taylor of Licking township, who, with one son, Carl, aged 16 years, survive a devoted husband and father.

Mr. Stewart was connected with the Great Western Clothing House some 18 years, where he met and made a vast number of friends by his genial manner toward everyone with whom he came in contact. In January of 1898, Mr. Stewart's health failed by reason of hard work and close confinement to his duties, and in March of the same year went to Ashville, N. C., where he remained for three months, returning home much improved, and it was thought by his many friends that he would speedily recover his usual good health. But such was not to be, and as a last resort made a trip to Tucson, Arizona, the early part of this year, where it was demonstrated that his constitution was rapidly giving way, and after a brave and patient battle with the Grim Destroyer succumbed to the inevitable and was gathered to his Father's as above stated.

The funeral services were conducted by the Rev. L. S. Boyce, from the home in Cherry Valley and the remains were followed to the grave by a great number of friends. "It was with sad hearts and tender hands we thus laid our friend and brother in the silent tomb, but we are in a measure consoled when we remember that we will meet again, when partings come no more. All of which is at last a small measure of consolation to his devoted wife and dutiful son." D. W. M.

WRATH

Of Women Whom Mills Scorned

BY MR. REED IN THE OHIO STATE PRISON.

THE MAN WHO IS NOW ACCUSED

Was the Originator of Several Financial Enterprises, Says the Chicago Police.

Chicago, May 15—Troubles are piling up for Harold C. Mills, the alleged assailant of Laura Stickler and the man of matrimonial complications. Latest and perhaps most serious of Mills' troubles comes from the wrath of women scorned.

"I hope he will be imprisoned for life," writes one Mrs. Harold C. Mills, who lives in St. Louis.

A Chicago Mrs. Mills previously had expressed the same hope.

The St. Louis Mrs. Mills charges that Mills absconded with $4,000 of her money in September, 1900. As an evidence of the intensity of feeling she has sent the Chicago police a photograph of Mills when, she says, he was a prisoner in the Columbus, Ohio, penitentiary for pocket picking.

"I have not any more use for it," she said, with reference to the photograph.

Then Mrs. Mills goes on to say that the man under arrest in Chicago changes his name as often as he transfers his affections.

"His right name is John Pepker, of Dayton, Ohio, but he has gone under the name of C. B. McCoy, Reed, Mills and a half dozen other aliases," she writes. "He married me under the name of Mills. He organized the Guarantee Building and Loan company in Columbus, Ohio, under the name of McCoy, and the Buffalo Savings and Loan Association under some other name. He is a bad one."

The St. Louis Mrs. Mills was a widow. Mrs. Sophia Hedley by name, when she married Mills on July 3, 1900. Soon afterward she gave him $4,000 to invest in real estate and then he disappeared.

Mills will be given a hearing on May 21 on the charge preferred by the Cincinnati girl, Miss Etickler, of the W. C. A., who says Mills lured her to the Newport hotel. Miss Stickler, although seriously injured by leaping from a third story window of the hotel, is in a fair way to recovery.

At the police station were a number of angry stockholders of the Guaranteed Home Purchasing company of which Mills was president at one time. Among them were Mrs. Florence Conners, of 439 Garfield boulevard, and Mrs. S. A. Edwards, of 6570 Halsted street. From the tenor of their talk the police say there is probability that Mills will be charged with embezzlement, in addition to his other offenses.

When he left Chicago, ostensibly for Buffalo, on December 1 last, he took with him $700 belonging to the Home Purchasing company, which concern is now in the hands of Timothy Scanlan as receiver. One of the heaviest losers is Seth G. Gibbs, who has $2,800 tied up in the concern with little prospect of realizing anything.

While in Pittsburg Mills was not idle as he organized the Keystone Home Developing company, capitalized for $100,000.

At the hearing yesterday Mills was placed under $5,000 bonds and his case was continued at the request of the police. Being unable to find surety he was returned to a cell.

Mills does not deny that he was married in St. Louis, but asserts that his wife there got a divorce from him.

David Holland, a former well to do citizen of Akron, drowned himself.

Her Housework Easily Performed After Taking Blood Wine

Women who find it difficult to do their housework, who drag about their home with hardly energy enough to lift a broom, who are all tired out, who ache, are lame, languid and distressed, will find in "Blood Wine" a medicine whose peculiar strength-giving properties make it impossible for these all too common ills to exist. A great many women neglect themselves, and disease follows. "Blood Wine" should be on the kitchen shelf of every home. If taken when one enjoys good health, it will keep one from getting out of order. If taken after disease has fastened itself upon the system it will quickly throw it off. Mrs. Elizabeth Marsh of 22 Isabella St., Boston, Mass., owes her present good health to "Blood Wine," though she almost died before she got hold of the medicine. She says:

"I suffered for years with a general rundown condition, due to a bad condition of the blood, which produced a type of dyspepsia. I had at times pains that almost drove me wild, and that left me with scarcely strength enough to get around. A friend, one day, to whom I told my trouble, said to me, 'Try "Blood Wine." It has done me so much good.' So did. I began with small doses and increased as I improved. I soon got so I could eat bread and milk. I continued with the medicine until I had taken several bottles, and was entirely cured. Now I eat anything, am strong, healthy and happy, and attribute it all to "Blood Wine."

Womb afflictions, periodical sufferings, and the general lassitude resulting will quickly disappear when the blood is properly treated. It provides nourishment and strength and brings about a natural condition in all the organs. Mrs. Bertha Sanborn of 50 Germantown St., Boston, will testify to that. Her experiences are as follows:

"Your "Blood Wine" has done more for me than I could express in a letter. I have been subject to womb trouble all my life, and have taken all sorts of treatment for it without getting permanent relief until I took "Blood Wine." I am only too glad to recommend it."

It also cured the mother of Mrs. Howard Warren of 142 Main St., Concord, N. H. She is a woman over ninety. The powerful action of "Blood Wine" in the blood creates normal action and drives off disease. Mrs. Warren's experience illustrates this. She says:

"I have used "Blood Wine" for both myself and my mother, who is now quite old and weak, and found it an invaluable remedy for colds and coughs, as well as a phenomenal stimulant for the nerves and muscles. It quickly overcomes any irritation of the throat or lungs, and seems to be the ideal medicine for aged people."

Nearly all diseases have their origin in the blood. It is foolish and a waste of time and money to try and cure them without removing the cause. If you want to be cured, to stay cured, to get your system in thoroughly healthy condition you can do it with "Blood Wine," because "Blood Wine" removes the cause of disease. "Blood Wine" costs fifty cents a bottle.

It has been decided that aliens in British prison are not to be taught any trade in the future.

Benjamin Flicker, an express agent, will not go to Cincinnati until all legal means are exhausted. Her attorney refuses to allow her to go to Cincinnati without a requisition and says he will fight to the last court to keep her here. Mrs. McCormick pleads ignorance of the poisoned whiskey, but says she is afraid of Mrs. Nobbe and thinks the latter will try hard to send her to prison for life.

CLEAR TITLE

To Half His Property Was the Condition Made by Shuler's Bride Before She Wed.

Marion, Ind., May 15—After deeding his property in trust to the attorney of his bride to be, Joseph Schuler was married in the office of Attorney Huffman to Elizabeth Baldwin. As soon as the marriage ceremony was over the property deeded to the attorney was then deeded to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Schuler jointly, giving the wife a clear title to half of all the property owned by her husband. This was the contract made by and between Mr. Schuler and Miss Baldwin when they were engaged to be married. It was a business transaction and there will be no trouble in proving the title in the future, as everything was placed on record and made legal before Miss Baldwin promised to love and obey Joseph Schuler until death does separate them.

TAKES DEAD MAN'S NAME AND PLACE

New York, May 15—Moody Merrill, who was arrested here on a charge of grand larceny, had, according to the police, entertained in Boston, Charles J. Grayson, the mining engineer, who was promoting New Mexican mining properties.

Grayson died while Merrill's guest and when the latter decided to go to New Mexico and take up mining, he assumed Grayson's name.

In New York Merrill was also known as Grayson. He made his headquarters at the banking house of W. U. Coler & Co. W. N. Coler said:

"It seems to me we have been dealing with Colonel Grayson at least 15 years. Now, if the story in the newspapers about his disappearance from Weston 10 years ago is correct, it would seem to bear out the statement that he assumed not only the name but the business of a dead friend.

"We found Colonel Grayson a man to trust and I will always trust him. He has handled hundreds of thousands of dollars for us, which he could have stolen if he were inclined. Colonel Grayson is one of the leading financiers of the Southwest."

Mr. Coler added that he would help the man if he could, for he believed a mistake had been made.

TEN WOMEN HURT IN A COLLISION

Indianapolis, Ind., May 15—Two street cars, the second and last in a string of three cars bearing a trolley party of officers and delegates of the national convention of Royal Neighbors, collided last evening on Central avenue at Seventeenth street.

Ten women were injured, three of whom were hurt seriously. They are Supreme Recorder Mrs. Winnie Fielder of Peoria, Ill.; Deputy Organizer, Mrs. Ada Lawson of Anoka, Minn.; and Mrs. Joseph Briggs of Sheldon, Iowa.

The front car stopped suddenly at a crossing and the rear car crashed into it. The women in the rear car were hurled forward, many of them being bruised about the faces and chests by striking the backs of forward seats.

Mrs. Lawson was carried to a house near the accident while the other injured were taken to their hotels. The front end of the rear car was crushed.

Dell Farmer as John Pym, Prof. N. B. Yeardley as William Coke, Leonard Evans as Denzil Hollis, Captain Warden as John Milton, Rev. E. L. Spald as Hampton, and the others as Puritans and Cavaliers were all excellent.

The singing during the entertainment was a pleasing feature of the evening. The choruses sang with precision, although it might be suggested that tonight, every member of the chorus should sing.

Mrs. William W. Davis presided at the piano and directed the singing in a manner that showed good taste and musical judgment. Mr. Otto Meyer's full Auditorium orchestra accompanied the singing.

Probably the prettiest stage picture was presented in the scene at the Lord Protector's house when the crown was offered to Cromwell. The gorgeous

CROMWELL

ENTERTAINMENT TO BE REPEATED THIS EVENING.

First Production at the Auditorium on Thursday Night Was a Decided Success.

A fairly good sized audience assembled in the Auditorium Thursday evening to witness the rendition of the interesting lecture-drama entitled "Oliver Cromwell vs. Charles I. of England" which is being given under the auspices of the English Lutheran church. The entertainment will be repeated tonight, and for several reasons the Auditorium should be packed.

The lecture deals with the stirring times of the revolution in England brought about by the unrelenting bigotry of Charles I. on the one hand, and the determination of the Puritans, led by such master minds as Oliver Cromwell, John Strode, John Pym, John Milton, to bring about in England a condition that would enable every man to worship God as he saw fit.

The audience was given a detailed account of the relation of this reform in England to that in Germany and other continental countries. The career of the great Commoner, Cromwell, was followed by the lecturer, Mrs. H. E. Monroe, from his college days at Cambridge, till his refusal to be crowned King of England, of which realm he had for several years been the virtual ruler, with the title of Lord Protector.

The lecture was illustrated by many stereopticon views of the characters of these times, the places that had become famous and other interesting scenes.

But the lecture was given a more concrete interest by the presentation of the more vivid scenes, by a large company of local dramatic talent, on the Auditorium stage.

There were over 200 in the cast, and as only a few nights were given for rehearsals the rendition was more than creditable, it was remarkable. Every part was taken in a manner that brought forth words of praise for the person who essayed it, and everyone is deserving of great credit.

The main parts were taken by Dr. F. Martin Townsend as Cromwell, and Judge Walter A. Irvine as Charles I.

The part of Cromwell was one that required histrionic ability of a high order, besides the speaking of numerous lines which taxed the memory to the utmost. Dr. Townsend was fully equal to the call made upon him, and his work of a high standard of excellence throughout.

Judge Irvine in the parliament scene, when he with authoritative, almost defiant mien, faced his sworn enemies on the Puritan side and demanded of them what he considered his royal due, reached a dramatic climax that was entirely satisfactory. Judge Irvine "doubled," and later appeared as the ambassador from the Netherlands, and again he did well.

B. F. McDonald's "Lightfoot" was absolutely perfect. His supplication to the king for justice, in dealing with those who had mutilated his father's person, was done in a manner that brought applause from the audience, while his righteous anger and oath of terrible vengeance were intensely dramatic.

costumes showed with brilliancy against the background of white, in which the chorus women were gowned. Miss Mary Baldwin as Lady Cromwell, presided as first lady of the Puritan court, with that austere dignity that was characteristic of the Lord Protector's wife.

In this scene Mrs. Charles W. Miller sang a solo in perfect voice and with tonal beauty that was fully appreciated. Mrs. Annis Lawhead, Mr. R. F. Williams and Captain F. G. Warden formed the rest of a quartette which sang with accuracy and precision.

Miss Emma English who prepared the production, deserves much praise for its successful rendition.

Captain Ed Richardson's drill team from Cedar Camp, Modern Woodmen of America, gave a splendid drill which has never been excelled in Newark.
